John T. Duval Heads Party Organization

(By VPA News Service)

John T. Duval, of Gloucester, was elected president without opposition of the Young Democratic Clubs of Virginia at the annual convention in Roanoke, August 25 and 26. He succeeds Robert Lane Anderson, of Marion. Other officers, likewise elected without opposition, were: vice-presidents, Franklin Daniel, of Lynchburg; Franklin Williamson, of Staunton; Calvin Robinson, of Appomattox, and Alvin Fitz-Hugh, of Arlington; national committeewoman Mrs. Gladys Morton, of Charlotte; national committeeman, A. Guy Hope, of Richmond; secretary, Mrs. Genevieve Dickinson, of Roanoke; and college secretary, Miss Nancy Lynn, of Manassas.

Principal contest at the convention, centered around the third term issue: for the President of the United States. Over the vociferous opposition of a die-hard minority, the Young Democrats went on record as opposing a third term for any president of the United States. Another resolution praised the noble leadership in "humanitaria, ideals" of President Roosevelt. The President was also commended for his efforts in behalf of world peace. A brief flurry of debate ensued over the majority and two minority reports of the committee on the capitation tax. The majority report, advocating that the present law requiring payment of capitation tax for three years as a prerequisite for voting remain unchanged, was adopted by a 957 to 206 vote. The minority proposals were not put to a vote.

Declaring that many youths were "heartily tired" of the "rule or ruin" philosophy as a nattempt to solve party problems, Robert Lane Anderson in his president's address at the opening convention session, called for maintenance of a "non-factional" Young Democratic front. He asserted that "organized Young Democracy can be of greatest service by continuing to be a common meeting ground and forum for all shades of Democratic opinion, and I have very little patience with those who...as at the national Young Democratic convention in Pittsburgh two weeks ago...would make our meetings otherwise... Let us turn aside then fro mthis path labeled 'rule or ruin' which leads through the slaughter-house of partisan folly to the open grave of political dissolution- and I say this, and Democratic youth says this to irreconcilables among both the tweedledums and the tweedle-dealers As for ourselves, let us continue to keep our organization non-factional."

Asks Improvement In Rural Mail Boxes

The United States Post-office Department has joined in the roadside beautification program.

Postmaster E. Leroy Smith is urging mail box owners on the rural delivery routes to fix up their boxes during the week of September 10. This week has been designated by postal officials as "Rural Mail Box Improvement Week."

"Unsightly rural mail boxes," detract from the natural scenic beauty along highways, and are not a credit to the owners of attractive homes.

Boxes not properly erected, or which are not in good condition re ard delivery of mail and expose it to damage from the weather.

Mr. Smith says it is the desire of the Post-office Department to urge all patrons on rural routes to provide suitable receptacles and to select them so that they will be accessible to the carrier, and at the same time present a neat appearance.

Rural mail boxes should be painted white and should have at least the following dimensions: 18 1/2 inches long, 6 1/2 inches wide, and 7 1/2 inches high, and should be erected at a proper height so the carrier can serve them from his automobile.

Marshall and Caldwell Reunion

Several hundred persons are expected to attend the Marshall and Caldwell family reunion to be held on Sunday, September 3, and Monday, September 4, at Howard Blanton Marshall's home on Route 460, near Spout Spring.

Those attending church will join others at the home, with a basket picnic dinner on the lawn, so that all may enjoy a good time together.

All relatives and friends and neighbors of the families are invited to attend.

William D. Marshall, of Washington, D. C., has been elected president of the reunion, and Miss Esther Coleman, secretary and treasurer.

Those two families are among the largest and best-known in this section and this reunion will be one of the biggest reunions of the year.

Phillips Now In New Home

The new home of Phillips Secretarial College, located opposite the Post Office at the corner of Tenth and Church Streets, Lynchburg, is one of the most modern and complete business training institutions in this section of the country.

The two story building, modeled exclusively for the college, has seven classrooms, two cloak rooms, library and complete executive and administrative offices.

The faculty is headed by Mrs. Herbert Phillips, president of the college, who heads the Penmanship and Advanced Shorthand department.

A feature of Phillips Secretarial College is the active placement department. (From September 1, 1938 to August 20, 1939, 109 permanent placements have been given Phillips' students. During the same period temporary employment calls total 561.)

Attention is directed to an advertisement on Page 6 today of the new fall term.

PWA Projects In Appomattox Are Completed

The Public Works Administration will wind up its activity in Appomattox County, on over $200,000 worth of construction in three projects, not later than September 5th, Resident Engineer R. A. Billipp, said today.

The status of construction on these projects is now one hundred per sent complete and only documentary acceptance of one project is necessary to wind up the whole program.

For the most part, completion dates in the county are well in advance of the date of June 30, 1940, which was specified by Congress, when the entire $1,400,000,000 program for the nation must be finished. All of this money will have been put to use by that time.

Billipp said that in the absence of legislation granting Federal aid in further construction of PWA projects, he did not feel free to make predictions about more work of this nature in Appomattox county. He stated that he could think of considerable more work that our county could undertake for public improvement, that would help to take up the slack in constructio, industries and building trades. "A list published by the Senate indicates that Federal aid was actively considered of $1,775,000,000 worth of work over the country, but if all communities would decide to go ahead with this needed construction through private financing, as the local School Board did with the Pamplin School Heating project," Billipp said," the termination of Federal aid would not be noticed so far as its effect on local employments and trades."

Farm Program Coordination Gets Attention

R. B. Hudgins, county agent, and Miss Ella Smith, home demonstration agent, returned last night from Blackburg, where they attended a three-day conference of extension division, AAA, soil conservation and Farm Security workers.

The conference brought together some 500 workers in an effort to seek coordination of the entire farm program and seek a basis for permanent agricultural rehabilitation. Virtually every county in thirty states now has the set-up of farm programs, and to deve-lail this vast effort requires a constant reatjment of aims and efficient alignment of the various factors entering into the picture of meeting the needs of America's farm program. The AAA program may be described in the following three-point statement: to stabilize production in relation to demand, to conserve and improve the soil, and to increase the income and raise standards of living on the farms of America.

Mr. Hudgins declares the conference was successful from the standpoint of aiding in reaching the required coordination. He states that the farm agent's office acts as a clearing house to cooperate with all phases of the program, and helps put into administration the goals of the county advisory and planning boards.

The many types of activity under the present farm program are rapidly reaching maturity. The department of agriculture feels that its efforts over a period of years are bearing fruit. America will continue, no doubt, to have a "farm problem," but individual problems will be faced as they arise and the broad program shifted to meet the challenge of each year's conditions.

Appomattox county enjoys the benefits of an active farm program aimed at local requirements for rural welfare, and general opinion is that our farmers are on the right road to economic solidarity.

Party For Miss Carter

Misses Mildred Carter and Loone McFadden, of Lynchburg were joint hostesses Saturday evening at a surprise handerchief shower given in honor of Miss Hilda Carter at her home on "Cymbereen Farms." Miss Carter leaves September 5 to enter Phillips Secretarial College in Lynchburg.

Va. Has Fiscal Surplus

Although an operating deficit of $757,467 was shown for the period, the Commonwealth of Virginia ended the fiscal year on June 30 with an unobligated surplus of $1,948,856 in the general fund of the state treasury.

This surplus was brought out in a recent report issued from the office of the state comptroller. The 1938-39 surplus, it was explained, was made possible by an unobligated surplus of $5,971,319 left in the general fund on June 30, 1938, the end of the preceding fiscal year.

Localities share $2,277,219 of the $5,090,939 net profits of the Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board for the fiscal year ended on June 30, an increase of $113,748 over the preceding year.
